Hamilton's Study of Varieties of Transference Interpretations	47
Tosone's Study of Interpretive Activity Correlated With Patients' Psychopathology	49
CHAPTER 3: METHODS AND PROCEDURES	52
Design	52
Participants	53
Nature of the Sample	53
Criteria for Selection	54

Recruitment	55
Data Collection: The Interview	56
Procedure	56
The Topics of the Interview Guide	57
Participant's Theoretical Orientation and Description of Current Practice	58
Participant's Understanding and Use of Particular Psychoanalytic Concepts	58
Integrating the Concept of Transference in Practice	59
Examples of Extra-Therapeutic Transferences in Participants' Clinical Experience	59
Other Theoretical Concepts, Apart from Psychoanalytic Concepts, that May Guide Practice	59
Participant's Development as an Independent Thinker	60
Data Analysis	60
Procedure for Data Analysis	61
Presentation of the Data	62
Reliability and Validity	63
CHAPTER 4: RESULTS	65
Participants	67
Overview	71
Findings	74
Participants' Development of Their Own Theories of Therapy	75
Personal Growth and Therapy	75
Shifts in Theoretical Positions	76
What Is Really Healing?	80

Do What Is Useful	82
Participants Listen on Several Levels at Once	85

Interpreting or Not Interpreting the Transference	101
Impact of the Here-and-Now Transference	104
The Role of the Extra-Therapeutic Transferences	106
Hierarchy of Transferences	110
Transferences in Parallel	113
Using the Extra-Therapeutic Transferences	115
Participants' Reactions to the Concept of the Extra-Therapeutic Transference	119
CHAPTER 5: DISCUSSION	122
Summary of Results	124
Participants' Development of Their Own Theories of Therapy	125
Participants Listen on Several Levels at Once	126

The Role of the Therapeutic Transference	126
The Role of the Extra-Therapeutic Transferences	128
Interpretation of Results	129
The Concept of Extra-Therapeutic Transference	129
Discrepancy Between Theory and Practice	130
How Participants Handled the Apparent Discrepancy	133
Relevance of the Findings to the Literature	137
Transference and Participants' Theoretical Orientation	137
Extra-Therapeutic Transferences	139
Psychoanalytically Oriented Psychotherapy	141
Empirical Research Studies	143
Incorporating the Concept of Extra-Therapeutic Transference Into Psychoanalytic Theory of Therapy	143
Limitations of Study and Suggestions for Future Research	147
